The Brooklyn Bridge.

OWNING A PIECE

You don't have to be an engineer to appreciate the beauty of a bridge. Man's ability to build is expressed nowhere in a more overt, powerful and rational form. Among the finest examples of structural art, bridges are powerful objects of pure utility and science—a realm in which America has excelled.

To many the Brooklyn Bridge, spanning the East River between Manahttan and Brooklyn, is the apotheosis of a bridge. The Great East River Bridge, as it was originally called, was in its time a symbol of the best that America could achieve, a thing of simple straightforward eloquence, hailed as the "eighth wonder of the world."

Indeed, the Brooklyn Bridge was—and is—a technical wonder. The concept solely of John A. Roebling, it was 28 years in the creation.

Conceived in 1855 when Roebling was crossing the East River on a ferry that became stuck in the ice, it was not until 1867 that a charter for the bridge was granted and the New York Bridge Company incorporated. It was another two years until work actually began and the official opening did not take place until 1883.

By Bob Lemke

Never one to underestimate his own abilities, Roebling wrote of his bridge:

> The completed work, when constructed in accordance with my designs, will not only be the greatest bridge in existence, but it will be the greatest engineering work of the continent, and of the age. Its most conspicuous features, the great towers, will serve as landmarks to the adjoining cities, and they will be entitled to be ranked as national monuments. As a great work of art, and as a successful specimen of advanced bridge engineering, this structure will forever testify to the energy, enterprise and wealth of that community which shall secure its erection.

In addition to the roadways for common commercial vehicular travel, the bridge was designed to include two tracks for special "bridge trains" to whisk passengers across the river in five minutes.

Along with the commercial appeal of the bridge, the designer did not neglect the social. Perhaps the most unusual feature of the bridge was what Roebling called the "promenade:" an elevated walkway over the trains and commercial travel "to allow people of leisure, and old and young individuals, to promenade over the bridge on fine days in order to enjoy the beautiful views and pure (remember this was in the 1860s) air." The engineer considered this feature to be an "incalculable value" in the "commercial and crowded city."

OF THE BRIDGE

1. "Two Cities As One." Fortunately for exonumists, the most beautiful of the contemporary Brooklyn Bridge opening medals is also the most common. This token was apparently struck in proof-like quality on a 34.5mm white metal planchet. The unusual 4mm thickness of the piece is necessary to properly present the high relief design of the Great Bridge spanning an East River teeming with steam and sailing ships, and the Brooklyn riverfront commercial area. Like many of the 19th Century pieces commemorating the Brooklyn Bridge, it was produced with a hole or holed after striking for suspension on a ribbon/badge affair. In all such cases, unholed specimens are much rarer than the holed version and pieces with the original ribbon and/or badge still attached are the rarest of all. Surrounded by a berried wreath is the reverse inscription: SOUVENIR/ OF THE/ OPENING/ OF THE/ EAST RIVER/ BRIDGE/ MAY 24TH/ 1883/ 1867-1883.

Work on the bridge killed the designer John Roebling and later crippled his son, Col. Washington Augustus Roebling, and accidents claimed the lives of several other construction workers, but the project continued.

The suspension bridge was still relatively new when the Brooklyn Bridge was undertaken. The basic principle is the use of cables and other suspenders to support the weight of the bridgeway. The suspension devices are supported, in turn, by towers on either end.

The towers of the Brooklyn Bridge are the largest (273 feet tall), and last stone masonry towers used on a bridge of that scope.

The slightly-arced central span of the bridge is suspended by four galvanized steel wire suspension cables of 5,296 steel wires bound together to a diameter of 15-1/2 inches.

The central span, between towers, is 1,595 feet, the longest distance ever spanned up to that time. With the two tower-to-land side spans of 930 feet each and the extensions from the city streets to the bridge itself, the whole structure is 6,537 feet in length. The width is 85 feet and from the center of the bridge to high water is a distance of 135 feet—a distance that has taken the life of many a suicide.

By 1883, the Brooklyn Bridge had cost some $15 million to build. The cost was split between Brooklyn and New York. Since Brooklyn stood to gain the most in increased business, industry and settlement, that city paid $10 million of the cost.

For 20 years the Brooklyn Bridge was the world's Washington Augustus Roebling, the chief engineer and a cripple used field glasses to keep track of the bridge's progress from his house. His wife acted as a message courier to his assistants.

longest bridge; until that honor was gained by the Williamsburg Bridge, which also connects Brooklyn and Manhattan.

The Brooklyn Bridge is undoubtedly the most photographed, lithographed, painted and written-about bridge in the world. It is also the bridge which has inspired the most commemorative tokens and medals.

The official opening ceremonies for the Brooklyn Bridge on Thursday, May 24, 1883, presided over by President Chester A. Arthur, had a holiday air as business and commerce shut down on both sides of the span and tens of thousands of people moved toward the East River.

All along the route, souvenirs of the Great Bridge were available, including small models of the bridge and even cakes in its likeness.

Among the most popular souvenirs of the day, however, were the plethora of medals and tokens struck in honor of the occasion. A contemporary newspaper account says most sold for 10 or 15 cents apiece

Since 1883 there have been many different types of Brooklyn Bridge commemorative medals and tokens produced. Together with those struck for the opening and with the many pieces struck bearing a representation of the bridge as—for example—part of the New York City skyline, they form an interesting topical collection.

Cataloged here is the author's collection of Brooklyn Bridge exonumia. Persons who have specimens not listed here are invited to correspond with the TAMS editor for

2. The view from the New York side of the bridge is presented on this 24mm bronze piece. The Brooklyn Bridge, again shown with busy river traffic, is identified as THE EIGHTH WONDER. On reverse is a winged, fat Dutchman holding aloft what appears to be a glowing ear of corn. Inscription at the sides is SEE OUR BRIDGE. The producer of the medal, G.B. Soley, Philadelphia, used both designs on later medals. It is a scarce piece.

3. This 34.5mm white metal token, 3mm thick, presents a closer view of the bridge, especially the Brooklyn tower. Also of unusual interest in the three-masted sailing ship passing beneath the bridge. Reverse is like many of the genre, giving some of the bridge's statistics: COMMENCED/ JANUARY/ 3RD 1870/ COMPLETED/ MAY 24TH 1883./ RIVER SPAN/ 1595FT 6IN/ HEIGHT OF TOWERS 277FT. One of the scarcer items.

4. Joined city arms in the foreground symbolize the bridge depicted in the background on this 31.5mm white metal token. On this medal, the bridge is viewed as if from a boat in mid-river. Above is: A MONUMENT TO/ AMERICAN GENIUS, below; FINIS CORONAT OPUS ("The end of the crowning work.") On reverse: A/ SOUVENIR/ TO/ COMMEMORATE THE/ OPENING OF THE/ BROOKLYN/ AND/ NEW YORK/ BRIDGE/ MAY 24TH 1883/ COPYRIGHT SECURED. Another scarce Brooklyn Bridge medal.

5. Not as well detailed as the larger medals, this 23mm white metal specimen depicts the bridge and a trio of boats from the Brooklyn side, with the abbreviated inscription N.Y.&B. BRIDGE, above. On reverse we have one of the more complete descriptions of the bridge: COMMENCED JAN. 1870/ MAIN SPAN 1,595 FT./ TOTAL LENGTH 5,988 FT./ TOTAL COST 15,000,000/ WIDTH 85 FT./ COMPLETED MAY 24, 1883. Again, rather scarce, especially in nice condition.

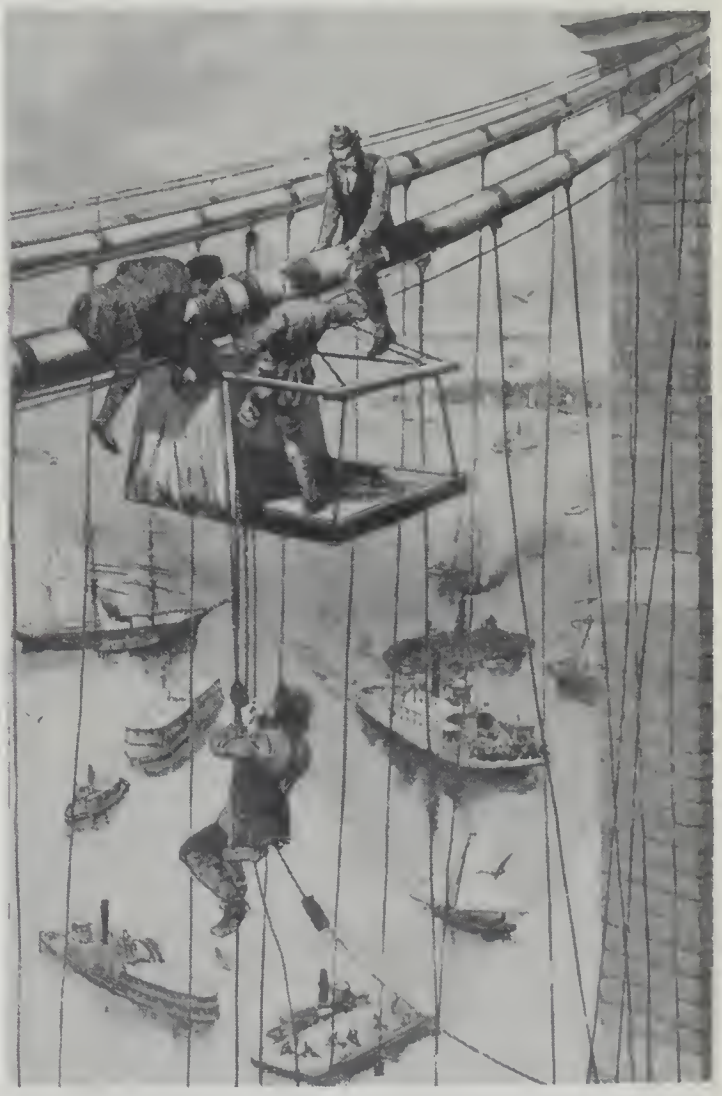
No particular pattern has been set for the presentation of the tokens beyond a rough chronological order. No prices have been listed and the rarity guide, like all comments included in the cataloging of these pieces, is solely the opinion of the author.

6. One of the more ususual Brooklyn Bridge medals is this 13mm golden bronze piece. A masterpiece of miniaturization, the quality of engraving and strike on this medal is excellent as illustrated by the accompanying photo which presents the piece 5 times actual size. The bridge scene is the same as on token No. 2. On reverse is the Lord's Prayer. It is not known whether the aqua ribbon on this specimen is original, but the piece is scarce.

7. An enigmatic Brooklyn Bridge commemorative is this 21mm bronze medal picturing a rather distorted view of the bridge, with clouds overhead. On reverse, within a wreath are a group of tools; hammer, pick, shovel, anvil, square and wheel, probably meant as a tribute to the engineer and builders of the bridge. There are no inscriptions on this crude but rare piece.

8. Beyond a doubt, the crudest of the contemporary Brooklyn Bridge medals has to be this 38mm tin piece with a uniface design stamped in from the reverse. A barely identifiable representation of the Brooklyn Bridge and the East River separates: BROOKLYN/ MAY 24,/ 1883/ NEW YORK. The unattractive nature of the piece probably accounts for the fact that the author has seen only this lone surviving specimen.



Everyday the daring young men on their flying bosun's chairs defied death. Workman are shown attaching the suspenders to the great cables.

Following the rash of medals issued to commemorate the opening of the Brooklyn Bridge in 1883, was a group of dual-purpose commemoratives half a dozen years later which marked the bridge as well as the centennial in 1889 of the inauguration of George Washington as first president of the United States. Besides the fact that he was inaugurated in New York City, Washington is also tied there through his defense of that area during the Revolutionary War.

9. By G.H. Lovett, this 48mm medal was struck in white metal in high relief. A mid-river view of the bridge is on reverse, with a rediant sun above and the New York City arms over crossed flags below. An inauguration centennial inscription is around. On obverse is a bust of Washington. Not particularly rare, but expensive because of its demand as a Washington item.

10. Same as No. 9, except bronze, and rarer than the white metal.

11. Same as No. 9, except no sun on reverse. Very rare, only 18-20 struck. The sun was added to cover a die defect.

12. Another of Soley's medals, this 25mm white metal token uses the same bridge scene as No. 2, with the inscription: NEW YORK • BROOKLYN/ PROGRESS OF/ 100 YEARS, above; and, THE EIGHTH/ WONDER, below. On reverse is a bust of Washington with: INAUGURATED NEW YORK APRIL 30, around and 1789 below. The medal is suspended from a bronze, hatchet-shaped pin by a red ribbon. The hatchet is inscribed: I CANNOT TELL A LIE. The medal itself is common, the entire assembly, rare.

13. Same as No. 12, except in bronze, and originally attached to the pin with a blue ribbon.

14. The only Brooklyn Bridge medal I have seen listed but never been able to buy is this 13.5mm tin piece described in a Bowers and Ruddy Rare Coin Review of 1977 as having a bust of Washington on one side, with the Brooklyn Bridge and date 1883 on reverse. Probably another Soley piece. Rare, but priced then at only $5 (my order was too late).

15. The smallest known (9.5mm) Brooklyn Bridge token is this 1883-dated brass item. Obverse features a view of the bridge as if from mid-river, with EAST RIVER/BRIDGE above. Reverse is a bit of an enigma, the word OBELISK is divided by such a structure. It is highly probable that the obelisk in question is supposed to represent the Washington Monument, completed in 1884, a year after the opening of the Brooklyn Bridge. Possibly the addition of the second great American landmark to the token was at the last minute, accounting for a lack of complete identification and the rather crude engraving, compared to the obverse. The clip at top seems to be either an attempt to hole the piece or resulted from the removal of a loop, which may indicate it was produced as a charm-bracelet piece, thus accounting for its rarity in token and medal circles.

One of the most unusual features of the Great Bridge was the "promenade" designed to add social function to the utility of the structure. The public walkway is shown on this early 20th Century postcard.

16. Issued in 1928, this 51mm bronze medal does not actually picture the Brooklyn Bridge, only the Brooklyn entrance. The high relief medal was struck by Medallic Art Co., and may well have been produced in other metals. Obverse pictures the: MEMORIAL/ PORTAL TO BROOKLYN/ BRIDGE, with the date 1928 below. Around the outside is: IN COMMEMORATION OF THE SPIRIT OF 1776 AND THE AMERICAN PATRIOTS WHO PARTICIPATED IN THE BATTLE OF LONG ISLAND. Beneath the central design device is: ISSUED BY BROOKLYN BRIDGE PLAZA ASSOCIATION/ J.S. GRAHAM, PRES. On reverse is a left-facing portrait of Washington around which is: MESSAGE FROM GENERAL GEORGE WASHINGTON READ TO THE AMERICAN TROOPS AT THE BATTLE OF LONG ISLAND AUGUST 27, 1776. Below is the quotation: "THE ENEMY HAVE NOW LANDED ON LONG ISLAND,/ AND THE HOUR IS FAST APPROACHING ON WHICH/ THE HONOR AND SUCCESS OF THE ARMY, AND THE/ SAFETY OF OUR BLEEDING COUNTRY, DEPEND./ REMEMBER OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS, THAT YOU/ ARE FREE MEN, FIGHTING FOR THE BLESSINGS/ OF LIBERTY; THAT SLAVERY WILL BE YOUR PORTION/ AND THAT OF YOUR POSTERITY, IF YOU/ DO NOT ACQUIT YOURSELVES LIKE MEN." Below that is a fasces and "AROSE THE SPIRIT OF/ 1776/ CREATING A NATION"/ S. SWEET. Scarce, and not cheap when available.

17. The most recent Brooklyn Bridge commemorative exonumia known to the author is this one ounce, .999 fine silver art bar issued circa 1973-74. It is the standard 50 x 29mm size and features something of a bird's-eye view from the Brooklyn tower.

18. Small wooden plauqes are commonly collected along with round metallic items by topical exonumists. Such a specimen is this Lord & Taylor issued piece, probably produced in 1883. The 4-1/8 x 2-5/8-inch dimensions contain on obverse a view of the bridge as seen from a Brooklyn rooftop. Reverse has the following statistics: COST $15,000,000/ COMMENCED JAN. 3, 1870, OPENED MAY 24, 1883/ LENGTH 5988' WIDTH 85'/ NEW YORK APPROACH 2492'/ BROOKLYN APPROACH 1901'/ CENTRE SPAN 1595 1/2'/ THICKNESS OF CABLES 15 1/2"/ HEIGHT ABOVE HIGH WATER/ TOWERS 276 2/3' ROADWAY 118' CENTRE SPAN 135'/ NEW YORK MAYOR:/ FRANKLIN EDSON./ ENGINEERS:/ JOHN A. ROEBLING./ WASHINGTON A. ROEBLING./ BROOKLYN MAYOR:/ SETH LOW. Scarce.

*. No attempt has been made to catalog the many modern issues of Brooklyn area coin clubs' and numismatic societies' issues which have made use of the Brooklyn Bridge as a design device. The illustrated 32mm brass piece of the Brooklyn Coin Club, 1962, is typical.

Outside the realm of tokens and medals, but still a much sought-after souvenir of the opening of the Brooklyn Bridge is the Tiffany & Co. engraved invitation to the opening ceremonies. (Photo courtesy Harry Forman.)

*. Likewise, no attempt is being made to catalog (or collect) the many orders, decorations, badges, etc., which feature incidental use of the Brooklyn Bridge in varying degrees of prominence. Those illustrated (one-half actual size) are typical.

. This space reserved for the first official United States commemorative medal (or coin?) issue to honor that uniquely American symbol, the Brooklyn Bridge. The occasion of the centennial of its opening in 1883 would be appropriate; for, although showing its age and scheduled for much needed repair, the Brooklyn Bridge still serves tens of thousands of people daily as a vital link between New York's boroughs of Manhattan and Brooklyn.

LIFE MEMBERSHIP BARGAIN AVAILABLE UNTIL JAN. 1

Any members who are inclined to shop for bargains would be well advised to consider opting for a TAMS life membership between now and December 31, 1978. Effective January 1, 1979, the cost of a life membership will increase from $120 to $160.

At the annual board meeting in Houston, the board, following deliberate consideration, voted to increase the annual dues from $6 to $8 on a calendar year basis beginning with the 1979 period. This action — the first increase in TAMS dues in six years — was taken in reaction to the Treasurer's report for the year ended July 31, 1978, which reflected a $3,858.32 deficit between receipts from dues and Journal production costs.

Although the actual deficit amounted to approximately $2.25 per member, the board voted to hold the actual annual dues increase to $2 per year in the hope of minimizing losses through non-renewals for 1979, and in the expectation that increase in total membership can be engineered which would wipe out the deficit. The annual Journal production deficit had increased steadily in the face of increases in pages printed, paper and postage costs, along with other production considerations, since it stood at just 25-cents per member in 1973, and had been met by proceeds from the Society's investments.

In accordance with the by-laws, which provide that TAMS life membership will be fixed at twenty times the annual dues level.

Any members interested in securing a life membership at the current $120 figure may do so up to Dec. 31, 1978, by contacting the Secretary. The secretary is Dorothy C. Baber, 611 Oakwood Way, El Cajon, CA 92021.

SO-CALLED DOLLARS UPDATE

Now that the remainder of the Hibler-Kappen catalog of "So-called Dollars" (published in 1963 by the Coin and Currency Institute, New York) has come on the market at a price every collector can afford, plus the recent publication of "Current Valuations" by Johnson and Jensen, there is a very good chance that interest will revive in these dollar-size medals.

The "Current Valuation", or price supplement, is the work of Chris Jensen, Joe Levine and Hank Spangenberger. Since no one ever agrees entirely on pricing, I will not comment on that aspect, but as dealers in a position to know what these medals are selling for, the supplement should certainly be a reasonably accurate reflection of today's valuations. Actually, over half of the supplement is devoted to a topical index of the original Hibler-Kappen catalog. This is by Dick Johnson, and if you've ever recalled what a so-called dollar looked like, but couldn't remember the name, you'll undoubtedly be able to find it by using this comprehensive cross-index.

The authors of the price supplement were probably wise in following the original listing, instead of attempting to add or remove specimens (except for H-K 689, which was delisted because it bears a denomination). It has long been my opinion that a number of additional specimens should have been included, while some that were included aren't really so-called dollars. This is an area of considerable argument, though, so other than mentioning a small number of obvious examples, I will make no effort to present a comprehensive list of additions or deletions.

The Bombardment of Fort Sumter medals are listed (H-K 11, 11a), and one wonders why the Monitor and

by Arilie R. Slabaugh

Merrimac pieces of similar style and size were omitted. The reverse of H-K 349 comes with obverse showing Pocahontas saving John Smith. H-K 464 was also made with a cow design on one side. There are more Butte, Montana, mining pieces (H-K 734, 734a) plus additional varieties of Octagonal Dollars (H-K 423-425) and Swift Dollars (H-K 905). If World War I pieces (H-K 892-894) are listed, why not those of the Mexican Border Warfare] And so it goes.

On the other hand, I've generally felt it questionable to include advertising pieces as So-called Dollars when they are more correctly termed advertising or commercial medals. Particularly suspectible are those in Part II, Section B, of Hibler-Kappen (H-K 731-755), although there are other borderline pieces, such as H-K 717a.

Then of course, there are errors in the original book that should be corrected, too, such as the "Greenbuck" Dollars (H-K 467-468), which is really "Greenduck" and which error is repeated in the description for H-K 656, 662 and 693. And, if you've ever tried to find H-K 42-45 with reverse of No. 23 but couldn't, that is because the reverse is really No. 48.

Hopefully, future editions of the price supplement may be published by Johnson and Jensen et al, that will include modest changes such as these, which can be made without any renumbering or through the addition of a few "a" and "b" varieties. To add all of the dollar-size medals (State of West Virginia 50th Anniversary, etc.) that are worthy of inclusion would be too disruptive to the present numbering, which did not allow for additions.

For the present, the compilers of the price supplement limited themselves to adding only those compositions of listed medals not already noted in the original Hibler-Kappen catalog. To those listed in the supplement, I can add a number of additional compositions, all of which I own or did own or which have been examined by me, unless otherwise noted.

Here's the list:

H-K-1 This piece in silver should be priced, since it is no more uncollectible than other "uncollectible" pieces that are priced in the supplement.

H-K-11a, copper; H-K 27, silver; H-K-33, silver, white metal; H-K-34, silver; H-K-35, silver; H-K-46, silver; H-K-69, copper gilt (as originally listed), silver; H-K-74, gilt; H-K-78, silver; H-K-81, silver, gilt; H-K-89, brass; H-K-89a, bronze; H-K-89b, copper gilt.

H-K-115, Silver; H-K-118, silver; H-K-119, copper; H-K-124, white metal (pewter?); H-K-125, silver (add to Lovett in index); H-K-135, white metal, copper plated; H-K-142, bronze; H-K-143, white metal; H-K-147, bronze; H-K-323, brass (CSNS sale, 1965; not seen); H-K-333, silver; H-K-613, bronze; H-K-616, bronze; H-K-617, white metal; H-K-618 bronze; H-K-860, silver (35 struck); H-K-879, Brass; H-K-891, copper; H-K-898, silver plated (believe all are); H-K-1003, bronze.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE...

In this, my first column as TAMS president, I feel that a couple prefatory statements are in order.

First, although I was unopposed in my election to head TAMS, I want all of you to know that your interest and vote has been much appreciated. During the next two years I hope to merit your continued support in the furtherance of the Token and Medal Society.

Second, if you as a member have any suggestions for the improvement of TAMS or which relate to its affairs in general, feel free to write to me. I have a number of ideas of my own which may or may not see the light of day. The same holds true for suggestions submitted to me. While suggestions will definitely be considered, being president of TAMS does not mean that I can automatically order this or that to take effect — we like to hash things out with all board members participating, either at the annual meetings or by mail. It's the democratic way and gives TAMS the advantage of a wide variety of insights. If the majority of the board is in favor of any changes they will certainly be made.

In order to meet the deadline for the October issue of TAMS Journal, I have given this message to the editor at the Houston convention. For that reason, I am unable to give details of future plans for TAMS until I have become more settled in office and have the opportunity to poll board members for their opinion.

This year's board, by the way, includes several new faces. Anyone who thinks that TAMS is run by a "clique" is wrong — a check of the 17 voting members of the board shows that only five of us were in office ten years ago. That's not many, when you consider that is desirable to retain some experienced hands each election the same way as the U.S. Congress.

And, speaking of Congress, I'd like members to think of those you've elected to the board in the same sense as congressmen. Make known to officers what you like (or dislike) about TAMS and what you would like to see accomlished. Since our board

BOX 363 CRANFORD, NEW JERSEY 07016

by Paul M. Dillingham

This is the first in a series of articles researching the tokens of Middle Tennessee. This area was selected because it is the section of Tennessee with which I am most familiar. This is not intended to be a catalog covering all the known tokens, or an attempt to assess rarity, scarcity, or availability of Middle Tennessee tokens. It is my hope to enrich the field of token collecting by encouraging those who possess these or related items to research the stories behind them. It has been said of many interesting items, "thereby hangs a tale." How true of tokens . . . a bit of history, some drama, tragedy, bitter rivalries, humor and all the component parts of the past which bear on the present.

The State of Tennessee has three natural divisions in its 95 counties: East, West, and Middle Tennessee. There are 32 counties in the East, 41 in the Middle, and 22 in the West. This "Grand Division" is born out in the State Flag and reflected in the State Poem. The Middle Tennessee counties are: Stewart, Montgomery, Robertson, Sumner, Macon, Trousdale, Clay, Jackson, Overton, Pickett, Fentress, Putnam, Smith, Wilson, Davidson, Houston, Humphreys, Hickman, Lewis, Wayne, Lawrence, Maury, Giles, Marshall, Bedford, Lincoln, Moore, Coffee, Franklin, Warren, Grundy, Marion, Sequatchie, Van Buren, White, DeKalb, Moore, and Williamson.

This first article relates the use of pickers tokens in the settlement of Una. Located in Davidson County eight miles from Nashville, Una derived its unusual name from a local school teacher, Miss Una Jones. This young lady so impressed the citizens of this community, then known as Rosedale, that they renamed it in her honor.

This area was well known for its truck farming; these small family-oriented businesses raised fruit and vegetables for the Nashville market. The picking and harvesting began early in the spring with strawberries and continued through the summer vegetable season to the fall with pears and apples. The labor for harvesting the garden produce was supplied from the local community to some degree. Most of the labor came from "professional pickers" or those who followed the harvest across the state. Other pickers were from Nashville and were in-between steady work.

As in most instances of this sort, the pickers were sent into the fields and as they returned their baskets laden with produce, they were given a token or other form of scrip which was exchanged at the end of each day for cash wages. This system insured the farmer paid only for the work that was actually done. There were various types of these tokens but most were in brass and all bore a symbol or name of the farmer plus an amount such as one crate, one gallon berries, one bucket tomatoes, or a simple number such as 5.

From this practice, two interesting sidelights developed. First, many of those who came to pick were economically disadvantaged and lacked the funds for a simple noon meal. In a central position to the farms and located off US Highway 70S, was the local store built as it now stands in 1884. Then, as now, it was a family business, continuing today under the name I.M. Smith and Son. Many original furnishings, showcases, etc., are still in use and one can choose from an almost unbelievable stock items that range from bubblegum to side saddles. Like most of its type, this store sold the makings of a noon meal from its meat counter . . . souse, baloney, and the ever-present cheese and crackers in hoops and barrels. From its shelf stock came such favorites as "Opossum" sardines and various canned items. During the noon hour, the pickers would come to the store and purchase their food with the tokens earned from the mornings labor. The store did not issue scrip but did honor the local pickers tokens. At the end of each week, the tokens would be returned to the local farmers and redeemed at a predetermined cash value.

During the depression of the 1930s, when a scarcity of ready cash developed, these tokens were used locally as a medium of exchange. Smith and Son continued to honor these against purchases. Two of the known types in brass appear in this article as rubbings.

This general practice died out about the time of World War II. From that time these tokens were discarded, melted down for the war effort, or simply "lost." The following farms were known to have issued tokens during the time period 1920-1929: S.J. Myrick, Kate Rader and Clifford Rader (same token), Buck Sharon, J.E. Hill, C.W. Combs, Henry Sharon, John Rice, Lewis Ellis, Robert Horton, Jim Wright and Charlie Johnson.

HELP WANTED

Jay Roe has just recently purchased a large collection of gold tokens, of which the following pieces he is unable to identify:

1. British Columbia Gold. There are a half-dozen different pieces of these 25-50¢ sized gold tokens as well as a couple labeled Canadian Gold. There should be a good reference for these but the ANA Library couldn't help me. Tokens are all crude.
2. 1881 Garfield Assassination Medal. Size and type of gold 25¢ tokens, obverse bust, J.A. GARFIELD around top, date at bottom. Reverse, wreath with nothing inside.
3. 1898 Mannitoba Gold. Gold Proof, $1.00 sized, looks modern. Obverse maple leaf with buffalo superimposed and legend in upper half, VICTORIA REGINA. Reverse, 1 D with small W underneath in a circle surrounded by MANNITOBA GOLD and 1898 with three stars on each side.

Any member who can assist Jay should write him at P.O. Box 5646, Hilldate Station, Madison, WI 53705.

A TOKEN REMINDER

by Gerald Johnson, LM 25

On a recent trip into the beautiful woods country of Oconto County, Wisconsin, my highway map revealed that a mere two-mile side trip would lead to the Civil War village of Stiles.

Civil war ruins are always a nostalgic "high" to the amateur historian, so you can imagine my chagrin to find no ruins at all at Stiles, and the oldest building in the village dated 1907!

Yet Stiles was a roaring boom town in 1863 when the Fuld 600-A Wisconsin Civil War token was in use, possessing the two important success ingredients of this frontier: available timber supplies and plenty of water for power and transportation.

The village was founded in 1839, a full 13 years before Oconto County was formed, and river log drives from the area were regularly conducted until 1851 when a saw-mill dam was constructed by Anson Eldred.

In 1853, the community that developed along the river banks near the dam was named "Stiles" in honor of Howard Stiles Eldred, infant son of Anson Eldred.

By 1856 the Stiles Gang Mills were producing 20 million board feet of lumber annually, and when the Civil War began, Anson Eldred, his brother Elisha and their partner Uri Balcom were already wealthy men.

Many of the workers at the Stiles Gang Mills were Indians, mostly Menominees who had always lived in the wooded area. The Caucasioan managers and maintenance staff lived in neat rows of white houses along the river banks.

The saw-mill and logging business at Stiles boomed well into the late 1870s and early 1880s before waning as supplies of wood were gradually exhausted.

Stiles was a river boat town also, and though it is difficult to imagine ships plying the little Oconto River, the Eldreds owned a fleet of ships that were used to haul the lumber to market. Included were a bark, six brigs and a Great Lakes steamer.

By 1893 two railroads were well established in the area, but the village population had dropped to 500, even though the Eldred saw-mill was still in operation, as were a flour mill and two hotels.

Lumbering in the Stiles area ended in 1910, and from the 200 residents censused in 1918, the little town has strunk into a near ghost town. Remaining are three taverns on a nearby busy highway, a small blacktopped road leading to a little flowage created by a power company, Saint Patricks Hall, and a boarded up general store dated (in stone) 1907.

Down the winding dirt path called "Chicken Shack Road" is the flowage created by the Oconto Electric Cooperative. This flowage lies over the Stiles Gang Mills ruins, the foundations of the rows of fine white houses of the 1870s, and the pulp mill that burned in 1924.

The old Stiles is gone now, from the board sidewalks that thundered to the spiked boots of the lumberjacks, to the teepees and hogans of the Menominee Indians who worked the mills and made the lath and shingles.

Sitting on the grassy hillside near the river and listening to the whine of radial tires on the busy highway, I wondered if the people of 1863 would have ever believed that someday all that would be left of Stiles would be the highway name sign and the copper token remembering the Stiles Gang Mills and the glory days on the Oconto River.

French Medal for Black Americans

by Ore H. Vacketta, TAMS 2076

The 93rd Division, organized in December, 1917, was made up of black National Guard units from the states of New York, Illinois, Connecticut, Maryland, Massachusetts, Ohio, Tennessee, Washington (D.C.) and South Carolina. Units in the division were the 371st Infantry — formed and disbanded at Camp Jackson, S.C. — and the 372nd Infantry, formed at Camp Stewart, Va., and disbanded at Camp Sherman, Ohio. In early June of 1918, the first black troops of the American Expeditionary Force arrived in France to take their place in the front lines beside French troops.

On its arrival in France, the 371st proceeded to Rembercourt-Aux Pots, 26 kilometers west of St. Mihiel, where it trained with the French 68th Division then holding the Verdun Sector of the Meuse-Argonne front from west of Forges ot Bois d'Avocourt.

General Order No. 215, dated June 6, 1918 and issued by the French Army read, in part: "At the moment when two American colored regiments join us I am bowing to their colors and I am wishing the best welcome to our new companions in arms.

"The French units of the 157th Division will give, I am sure, the best welcome to their American brothers in arms who crossed the sea for the triumph of civilization, justice and liberty in the world."

Assigned to the Avocourt sector, the new division took over trenches made famous earlier during the battle of Verdun. The Germans were quick to test the Americans, and when French officers saw them stand their ground, they showered respect on their new comrades.

On the Fourth of July, General Meriano Goybet, commanding general of the 157th, issued a general order taking "special notice of the fact that this is the first 4th of July to be celebrated by his Franco-American Division. It is a striking demonstration of the long standing and blood-cemented friendship which binds together our two great nations."

After being relieved from the Verdun Sector, the 371st Regiment moved to the Somme-Bronise area to participate in the Meuse-Argonne (Champagne offensive) with the French 4th Army.

On Nov. 11, Armistice Day, Gen Goybet said: "For seven months we lived as brothers in arms sharing the same burdens, the same hardships, the same dangers. We have participated in the great battle of Champagne, which was crowned by such a magnificent victory. The 157th Division will never forget the irresistable and heroic rush of this colored American regiment up the Cote-des-observatories and into the Plaine de Monthois. The most formidable defenses, the strongest machine gun nests, the most crushing artillery barrages were unable to stop them."

In addition to this tribute, the French had a beautiful medal designed, sculptured and struck honoring the 371 st Infantry. Nowhere in the publications was this medal mentioned. I was fortunate to pick up this medal and, after many months of research, was able to come up with an answer.

Embossed or Shell Storecards

by Gary Pipher, TAMS #2711

In reading through back issues of the TAMS Journal, I have noticed only a few new additions to the work started in 1960 by Mr. Rulau & Mr. Mitchell on "Embossed or Shell Storecards." A major supplement came out in August 1972 by John Reynolds and the last group I found listed were by Arlie Slabaugh in 1975. The following N.Y. Shell cards are in my collection with the remaining group owned by me at one time. As far as I can find, these are all unlisted in any of the above works.

I'm sure that other TAMS members have a group of shellcards that are UNLISTED. Why not do a listing for the journal.

CORRECTION

Former member Ralph Hinde (#642) was erroneously reported as having been dropped for non-payment of 1978 dues in the August report. Mr. Hinde, who had been in poor health for about a year, died on Oct. 22, 1977.

ARTICLES NEEDED

The October issue of the Journal has pretty much depleted our article bank. Although we do have a couple articles on hand there isn't enough for another issue.

It's your Journal too! So why not take the time to share an article with fellow members.

FROM THE BOOKSHELF

Requests to borrow books or for library information should be addressed to (Mrs.) Cheryl E. Maisch, TAMS Librarian, P.O. Box 2005, Cridersville, Ohio 45806. Please include your complete mailing address with ZIP code along with your TAMS membership number.

We have just returned from a very informative and busy ANA Convention in Houston, Texas. It was great being able to meet so many of the TAMS members personally. In the Librarian's report to the Society I mentioned that there have been 176 publications borrowed by 31 of our members since February of this year. I reported that we have $4.32 surplus from generous borrowers returning a little bit more than the exact amount of postage — which will be put towards the purchase of a new book. With the Board's approval I am currently looking into the cost and type of insurance coverage available for the Library. The TAMS Board allocated $100 to the Library for a revolving operational/acquisition fund.

The TAMS Library still depends heavily on unsolicited donations for additions to its bookshelves. Therefore, we are very appreciative of the many donations received from our members while in Houston — even though our luggage was very heavy on the trip home! We received donations from Dottie Dow, Adna G. Wilde, Jr., Tom McAfee, Paul Cunningham and R.W. Colbert — all greatly appreciated. I will list these in part in this issue. Watch the next Journal for the continuation of these listings.

At this time I would like to express my personal thank you to all members and organizations who donate material throughout the year. Without these donations the Library would not be able to offer the members of TAMS the vast and varied amount of material that it does.

We have received several Auction Catalogues from: Beebe's, Inc., H.G. Spangenberger and TMC Coins and Collectables, Inc.

We would like to express our thanks and appreciation to the following individuals and organizations who have donated recent additions to the Library: Dick and Barbara Hyde (W-5b, W-5c and W-5d), Kent D. Johnson (J-14), Tom McAfee (M-44), Dottie Dow (D-18), Walter Caldwell (C-34), Adna G. Wilde, Jr., (W-28), Paul Cunningham (F-45 and F-46), R.W. Colbert (F-47), North Eastern Vecturist Association (N-10), Civil War Token Society (C-23), and Society of Ration Token Collectors (S-15).

PRESIDENTS MESSAGE

members are fairly well represented geographically, those of you who attend conventions, coin shows or local club meetings will surely be seeing TAMS officers from time to time. Or, if you don't get the chance to meet board members in person, write to them. Maybe you like everything as it is, maybe you don't, but board members can't be expected to know these things if you don't tell them.

In short, I expect my next two years in office to emphasize communication between members and between members and officers. I believe TAMS will be a better organization as a result. Let every member be a participant.
